Why Student Affairs? Because We Are ACPA! Check out the voices of those who responded with their reflection on "What's Your Why" during Careers in Student Affairs Month, and their commitment to the field of Higher Education and Student Affairs. Asao B. Inoue is professor of Interdisciplinary Arts and Sciences, director of University Writing and the Writing Center at the University of Washington, Tacoma. I came out to my parents when I was 15. I told them I was bisexual. My mom didn't believe me and said it was a phase. She believed I was only saying it so I could get attention and be one of the "cool kids". Last week I was in Pacific Beach with my partner, and we stopped by a bar/restaurant called "Crushed" to grab a drink. I got up to go to the restroom, and in the hallway was confronted by a large mural of a headless figure, Our Stories Matter Liberating The Voices Of Marginalized Students Through.
